

My vote is to impose stricter limits on media ownership. The consolidation of for-profit media at current levels is hazardous enough to democracy. Policies which move us toward even greater consolidation will be remembered as a low point in our progress toward the freedom of information, expression, and accurate citizen beliefs that maintain a representative democracy.